Disruptive Women in Health Care’s mission is “to serve as a platform for provocative ideas, thoughts, and solutions in the health sphere.” Now in its fifth year, it has not only achieved its stated mission, but exceeded it. Disruptive Women has become an online destination for innovative thinking and has become a thought leader and influencer in its own right, receiving numerous awards and accolades including being named “one of the top health policy blogs” by Health Tech and a “Fierce Female Healthcare Blog To Watch” by Fierce Healthcare.

The Disruptive Women community goes beyond the online world, regularly hosting forums, book discussions, and receptions on timely and often controversial health policy topics.

Through these events, Disruptive Women brings together prominent players with different opinions and ideologies. These events serve as invaluable networking opportunities and result in robust debates and collaborations.

Today, there are over 100 global contributors, including former Members of Congress and other elected officials, health professionals, technology leaders, patient advocates, researchers, economists and thought leaders, both in and out of health care. This stellar roster continues to grow with more
